the new york times bestselling author describes how current trends will create an era when anything and everything is available for almost nothing in the zero marginal cost society new york times bestselling author jeremy rifkin uncovers a paradox at the heart of capitalism that has propelled it to greatness but is now taking it to its death the inherent entrepreneurial dynamism of competitive markets that drives productivity up and marginal costs down enabling businesses to reduce the price of their goods and services in order to win over consumers and market share marginal cost is the cost of producing additional units of a good or service if fixed costs are not counted while economists have always welcomed a reduction in marginal cost they never anticipated the possibility of a technological revolution that might bring marginal costs to near zero making goods and services priceless nearly free and abundant and no longer subject to market forces now a formidable new technology infrastructure the internet of things iot is emerging with the potential of pushing large segments of economic life to near zero marginal cost in the years ahead rifkin describes how the communication internet is converging with an energy internet and logistics internet to create a new technology platform that connects all there are billions of sensors feeding big data into an iot global neural network prosumers can connect to the network and use big data analytics and algorithms to accelerate efficiency dramatically increase productivity and lower the marginal cost of producing and sharing a wide range of products and services to near zero just like they now do with information goods the plummeting of marginal costs is spawning a hybrid economy part capitalist market and part collaborative commons with far reaching implications for society according to rifkin hundreds of millions of people are already transferring parts of their economic lives to the global collaborative commons prosumers are plugging into the iot and making and sharing their own information entertainment green energy and 3d printed products at near zero marginal cost students are enrolling in free massive open online courses moocs that operate at near zero marginal cost social entrepreneurs are even bypassing the banking establishment and using crowdfunding to finance startup businesses as well as creating alternative currencies in the fledgling sharing economy in this new world social capital is as important as financial capital access trumps ownership sustainability supersedes consumerism cooperation ousts competition and exchange value in the capitalist marketplace is increasingly replaced by sharable value on the collaborative commons rifkin concludes that capitalism will remain with us albeit in an increasingly streamlined role primarily as an aggregator of network services and solutions allowing it to flourish as a powerful niche player in the coming era we are however says rifkin entering a world beyond markets where we are learning how to live together in an increasingly interdependent global collaborative commons blasphemy and other forms of blatant disrespect to religious beliefs have the capacity to create significant civil and even international unrest consequently the sacrosanctity of religious dogmas and beliefs stringent laws of repression and codes of moral and ethical propriety have compelled artists to live and create with occupational hazards like uncertain audience response self censorship and accusations of deliberate misinterpretation of cultural production looming over their heads yet in recent years issues surrounding the rights of minority cultures to recognition and respect have raised new questions about the contemporariness of the construct of blasphemy and sacrilege controversies over the aesthetic representation of the sacred the exhibition of the sacred as art and the public display of sacrilegious or blasphemous works have given rise to heated debates and have invited us to reflect on binaries like artistic and religious sensibilities tolerance and philistinism the sacred and the profane deification and vilification endeavouring to move beyond simplistic points about the rights to freedom of expression and sacrosanctity this collection explores how differences between conceptions of the sacred can be negotiated it recognises that blasphemy may be justified as a form of political criticism as well as a sincere expression of spirituality but it also recognises that within a pluralistic society blasphemy in the arts can do an enormous amount of harm as it may also impair relations within and between societies this collection evolved out a two day conference called negotiating the sacred blasphemy and sacrilege in the arts held at the centre for cross cultural research at the australian national university in november 2005 this is the second volume in a series of five conferences and edited collections on the theme negotiating the sacred the first conference negotiating the sacred blasphemy and sacrilege in a multicultural society was held at the australian national university s centre for cross cultural research in 2004 and published as an edited collection by anu e press in 2006 other conferences in the series have included religion medicine and the body anu 2006 tolerance education and the curriculum anu 2007 and governing the family monash university 2008 together the series represents a major contribution to ongoing debates on the political demands arising from religious pluralism in multicultural societies
